

About friendship

The search for a good friend is like searching for the right way. A good friend wishes nothing but the best for his neighbor and is firmly connected to human values. A good friend is a wise counselor, a faithful companion and a man connected with God.

"Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God?" (James 4, 4)

Especially in this day and age, as worldly goals are shaping our lives, a good friend is hard to find. Many people are missing human values such as compassion, charity and truth. These are the values that help us to find good friends in our lives.

Each of us has the opportunity to align with these values. Commitment to selfless service will make a small plant grow, a plant of friendship to all people and God's creation.

Friendship means to give joy through selfless service.

Jesus shares this friendship with all people. Good thoughts, words and actions will change our world for the better. Jesus is a model of love, compassion and mercy, and therefore he is a true and constant friend.

As we are willing to serve our neighbor selflessly, we will walk in Christ's footsteps and enter into a covenant of friendship with him, which will last for ever and ever.
